

Customer Services Are Available with You And Me Enterprises!

We've Got Your Back!

Just Because Your Site is Built, Our Relationship Isn't Over!

Once your Site is up and running, we realize that you may have concerns or issues that need to be addressed. We've put together Customer Service Packages with clients just like you in mind. We provide remote and in-person support for the life of your website.

New email setup, advertising and marketing your Site online, and other such matters requiring our assistance are frequently requested – not because our site projects are difficult, but because technology advances and understanding the advancements is paramount to get the most out of your Site. We want you to succeed offline and online!

For example, if you have a mailing list and you need to understand more about managing your list – cultivating it and then advertising to your list members – we have training we provide for you. We also understand that you may have changes in personnel, computer upgrades, and other situations that may require your need for us to reset email passwords, re-establish old email accounts, or establish new email accounts. So we're here for you to do what you need us to so you can manage your business!
